The changemaker

Sungai Siput MP Dr Michael Jeyakumar Devaraj reveals his party's stand on the need for social reform and how it rings true in his own constituency

Drawing on the drama and splendour of the Baroque period, Chanel's cuffs in rose and white gold are embellished with diamonds and precious stones (price upon application)

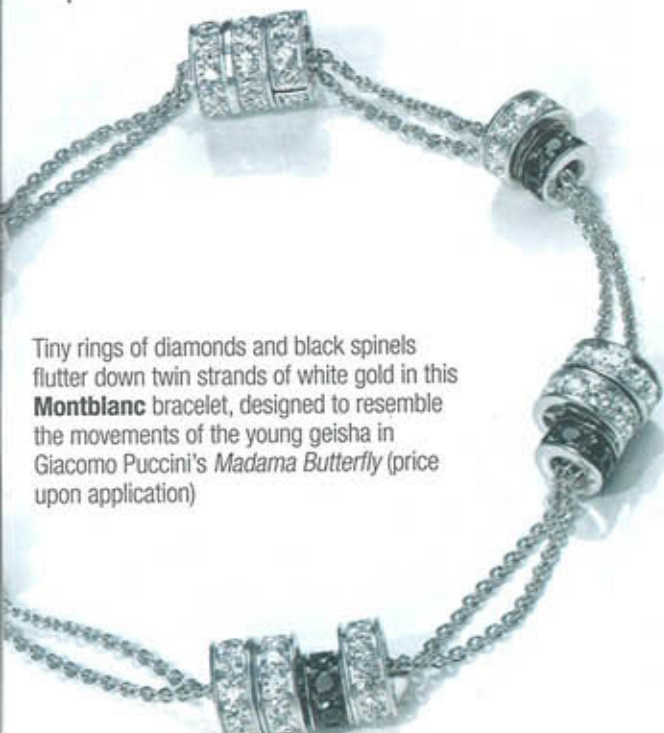

In a flutter of shimmering wings, a collection of delicate jewelled insects join Cartier's menagerie. We love this diamond dragonfly charm, delicately perched on a blue chalcedony stone. (RM47,900)

DeGem has lovingly crafted the 11-carat Golconda diamond — the world's clearest, purest and most flawless stone ever found — into a truly breathtaking piece (price upon application)

Inspired by Semiramis, the Queen of Babylon, these Boucheron earrings extend the entire length of the wearer's ear. Blackened gold holds together two pear-shaped cabochon sapphires, 108 emeralds and a sprinkling of diamonds. (RM1,243,200)

Tiny rings of diamonds and black spinels flutter down twin strands of white gold in this Montblanc bracelet, designed to resemble the movements of the young geisha in Giacomo Puccini's Madama Butterfly (price upon application)

Mikimoto bears gifts from the sea — the deep glimmer of rare black South Sea pearls are offset by white gold and diamonds (earrings, RM13,600 and pendant, RM13,100)

Bright and BEAUTIFUL...

Haute joaillerie exists not just as a display of inimitable craftsmanship and the beauty of rare gemstones, but also as a celebration of the creative nature of the artisans. In workshops all over the world, jewellery makers take inspiration from almost anything to create one-of-a-kind pieces that glitter with the depth of meaning.

The Brittel necklace from Facet Fire epitomises the brilliance of a starry night sky with 356 perfectly round diamonds forming a lacy orbit around the wearer's neck (RM135,878)
